

MISS HOYT IS BRIDE OF T. H. FROTHINGHAM

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry
Reese Hoyt Wed in St.
Bartholomew's.

SOCIETY SEES CEREMONY

Miss Elizabeth Sherman Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reese Hoyt, was married to Thomas H. Frothingham, of Philadelphia, yesterday afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church. The Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of the church, and Bishop David H. Greer were the officiating clergymen. The chancel was decorated with palms, which formed a background for clusters of white roses, and these flowers were placed on the altar and there were clusters of them on the pews of the main aisle.

The bride entered the church with her father. She wore a gown of white satin completely covered with a white gauze overspread embroidered in a floral design of pearls. The bodice was embroidered with pearls and finished with point lace and there was a court train of white satin which fell from the shoulders. Her veil of Brussels point, arranged with cap effect, fell to the end of the train. The bride wore a pendant of diamonds and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The bride attendants were Mrs. George S. West of Boston, Mrs. Oliver Iselin, Mrs. J. Macy Willets, Mrs. Theodore P. Dixon and Miss Vera Bloodgood of this city and Miss Saltonstall of Boston. They were dressed alike in gowns of orchid shade with a train of white lace, a deeper shade and trimmed at the bodice with crystal embroidery. They wore large hats of purple satin wreathed with orchids and they carried loose clusters of white lilies.

Theodore Frothingham, Jr., a brother of the bridegroom, was his best man. The ushers were Huntington W. Frothingham and W. Bainbridge Frothingham, brothers of the bridegroom; Samuel M. Felton, Jr., Alfred O. Hoyt, brother of the bride; Henry P. McKen, Edwin D. Morgan, Jr., Barragh Park, J. Griswold Webb, Epen Sullivan, George C. Cutler, Jr., Gratton H. Pyne, George B. BISHOP BURKE OF ALBANY IS DEAD

Stricken Suddenly of Heart Disease at the Age of 75 Years.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—Bishop Thomas M. A. Burke of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Albany died suddenly to-night at 7:15 o'clock in the episcopal residence in Madison square of heart disease.

For several months the Bishop had been in ill health, and he had been warned by his physician against overexertion. A week ago Sunday he celebrated his seventy-fifth anniversary. Last Sunday the doctor advised him against attending the Holy Name celebration because of his condition.

"I want to be with the men on this big day," the Bishop insisted.

Bishop Burke celebrated the fifty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the bishopric on June 30 in 1860. He got presents of many thousands of dollars, which he turned over to the poor of the diocese.

Bishop Burke is survived by two brothers, Francis E. Burke of Buffalo and Charles G. Burke of Brooklyn; a nephew, Francis U. Burke of Albany, and two grandchildren, Edwin and Florence Burke of Albany.

The Right Rev. Thomas Martin Aloysius Burke, the fourth Bishop of Albany, was born in Ireland, January 10, 1840. His father was Dr. Peter Uile Burke, a physician and surgeon, who died in Utica in 1888.

Bishop Burke received his early education under the direction of his father, who was a Trinity College man. He was in the Academy of the Assumption at Utica when he entered St. Michael's College, Toronto, Ont. He graduated from St. Charles College in Maryland, conducted by the Society of St. Sulpice, in 1860.

In 1861 he entered St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, where he began the study of theology. At the end of his three years course he received the degree of master of arts and bachelor of divinity and was ordained on June 30, 1864.

Father Burke's first appointment was as assistant in St. John's Church, Albany, next he was transferred to St. Joseph's, of which he became rector. On July 1, 1894, he was consecrated the fourth Bishop of Albany.

R. G. HARPER CARROLL.

Great-grandson of Charles Carroll of Carrollton Dies at 79.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 20.—Robert Gooding Harper Carroll, 79 years old, great-grandson of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, died to-day of pneumonia. He was the last of his generation, but is survived by several nephews and nieces, the children of his brother, the late Gov. John Lee Carroll. They include the Countess de Kergorlay and the Baroness de la Grange of France. Charles Carroll, also now in France, and Royal Phelps Carroll of New York and Newport. Charles Bancroft Carroll, the present owner of DeCourcy Manor, the ancestral estate of the Carrolls near Elliott City, Md., is a great-nephew.

Harper Carroll was twice married. His first wife was Miss Lee of Frederick county, their son being Charles Carroll of Homewood. His second wife was Miss Thompson of Staunton, Va.

MRS. EDGAR S. APPELBY
OF NOTED FAMILY DEAD
Was Daughter-in-law of Man
$50,000,000.

Mrs. Edgar Storm Appleby, who died yesterday at 216 Central Park South, was the daughter-in-law of Charles Edgar Appleby, who when he died in December, 1913, left an estate consisting largely of real estate in New York and New Jersey valued at about $50,000,000. Charles E. Appleby was 90 years old when he died. He was a lawyer, but practised only to attend to his own affairs, and his two sons, Edgar S. Appleby and John S. Appleby, were sole heirs to his estate. The house in Central Park South was the old home of the family and the two sons have houses at Glen Cove. Mrs. Appleby left two sons, who are students at Columbia University. Charles E. Appleby, who made the fortune, was born in Monmouth county, N. J., and after studying law was admitted to the bar in New York in 1847. He practised law for many years in New York and was attorney in this county for Jean Frederic de la Farge, representing King Louis Philippe in the latter's real estate transactions in America.

Some of his earliest purchases in Manhattan were in Central Park South. He bought fifteen lots in Seventh avenue opposite the Savary apartments for $44,000 and also purchased large plots in Eleventh avenue and on the North River front. Two blocks of his estate are occupied by slaughter houses at Fortieth street and the North River. Mr. Appleby married Miss Storm, daughter of Isaac Storm, who was treasurer of a big insurance company.
